Open Source / Third-party Notices

Stand: 2026-05-02

Third-party software notices and attribution information.

1. Purpose

OpenDucks IT uses open-source software in websites, hosting environments, scripts, libraries, tooling and managed services. This notice provides a general attribution framework.

2. License Compliance

Third-party components remain subject to their respective licenses. Where attribution, copyright notices, source-code availability or license texts are required, OpenDucks IT provides them in project documentation, repositories, package files or customer-specific notices.

3. Common Components

Depending on the project, components may include PHP libraries, JavaScript packages, Linux distributions, web server software, database systems, icon libraries, CSS frameworks, Python tools and monitoring components.

4. Requests

Questions about third-party notices or source-code obligations can be sent to legal@openducks.org.
